After the armistice his unit went to Coblenz with the armhy of occupation, but the lure of further travel called Mosher, and he continued on into the interior of Austria, absent without leave.

An American sergeant, Harry Carr, was sent after him. The two men met and Carr was shot to death. The civil authorities of an Austrian village arrested him for assaulting a forrester. Again he was arrested and this time placed aboard the Pocahontas to be returned to America. On the trip across the ocean he demonstrated his mastery of devices of restraint by wriggling free from a 42-pound iron ball attached to his ankle, and slipping off a pair of ingenious German handcuffs.

Before the vessel made port, Mosher was separated from other prisoners and securely manacled.

The official communique announcing the intention of the French government to recognize as a de facto government that represented by General Wrangel in southern Russia, was received here today in official circles.

Administration officials consider the French step as logical in view of the formal succession of General Wrangel to the authority of Admiral Kolchak and the Omsk government, which was recognized by both France and Great Britain. Without foreshadowing a similar step by the United States, officials declared that the action of France was in no way inconsistent with the policy toward Russia advocated in the American note to the Italian ambassador. The American government, it was recalled, while not having recognized Kolchak, at one time endeavored earnestly to place Kolchak in a position. "In which he might be recognized."

London, August 12 .- Forthcom ing conferences between England and France may be regarded as absolutely crucial, from the stand-point of entente solidarity. Awaiting Developments. There is no doubt now that the chancellories of Europe are breathlessly awaiting developments. Whether the split between the two powers will be permanent so as to affect the balance of power in all Europe, as arranged at Versailles, remains to be seen. Much depends upon the Sunday conference between the premiers.

The situation in a nutshell is simply this: Britain wishes a reconciliation with Russia. France is determined that this shall not be and await developments at the Minsk armistice conference. Boston, August 12 .- (By the Associated Press.) - Some 40,000 investors entrusted a total variously estimated at from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 to Charles Ponzi in a money-making scheme which postal officials today declared to be absolutely impossible of fulfillment.

Ponzi surrendered to the federal authorities today, explaining that he was unable to meet his obligations because of the closing yesterday of the Hanover Trust pany, where the bulk of his funds were deposited. It is said in many cases the possibilities of profitably exchanging American dollars for French francs and francs for Italian lire and the latter for something else seemed plausible enough without a clear comprehension of just how the thing worked out.

Amazing Disclosures.

Earlier in reply to specific inquiries, Inspector Moseby said:

"Our attention was first called to Ponzi's operations last February, when inquiries began coming into the office from investors and propective investors, and an investigation was immediately undertaken. Since that time we have been working in Europe and elsewhere.

He said he had warned hundreds of people against Ponzi when inquiries began to come in last February that no man or set of men could manipulate or speculate in international reply coupons in any such manner as they alleged Ponzi had explained to them. In a formal statement later Mr. Moseby said:

"It has been my great desire for sometime past that Ponzi should be brought to account and his scheme laid bare, and never for a moment have I believed that he was solvent, but that in the end he would be shown to be insolvent, probably by a million. Within the past few days, having felt sure that we had or would shortly have sufficient evidence at hand upon which to arrest Ponzi and to make sure that he could be found when wanted. thing which I am not able to understand, why people invested their money with Ponzi. I can only attribute it to his personality—they invested to the man, not the business. We warned hundreds of people against him. Many of them heeded the warning, but undoubtedly there were many who gave him their money, notwithstanding. "We found it difficult to talk with some people, they were so impressed, and believed so strongly that he was doing what he said he was doing.

He Talked in Millions.

"One of Ponzi's attractive features was the easy manner in which he talked in millions, instead of in hundreds or thousands. He simply charmed, dazzled people. "He appealed to the gambling spirit of the people by the quick action on the investments. When he started out he promised 50 per cent in 90 days, but he paid it in 45 days, with the result that many reinvested their principal and their winnings.

"Ponzi did not use the mails as will have to back out some day.

Split Goes Deeper.

But this is aside from the cleavage between Great Britain and France. Well-informed observers think the split goes deeper than this most recent difference of policy which they regard as a mere surface phenomenon, indicating a general condition. They see a set of irreconcilable differences of foreign policy, especially regarding Russia. These have been becoming more and more manifest of late, and becoming more and more difficult to bridge.

The United States, to all appearances, stands with France for no recognition of the oviet government and England feels, of course, that much of the strength of the French position has its foundation in the attitude of the American government.

Left Diplomats Gasping. The lightning developments of the ast few days have left the foreign office and diplomatic circles gaspng. The situation is frankly described as very grave.

Lloyd-George, of course, is faced with serious difficulties at home in the attitude of the laborites and other groups that oppose any form of action against Russia. His position would appear to make it almost humanly impossible for him to meet Millerand half way on the latter's project, much less going the whole ourse with France.

Official confirmation of French recognition of Wrangel fell with terrific force on Downing street, where Lloyd-George, even in the ace of the most reliable reports, reto believe that the action attributed to the French government could possibly have been taken vithout his knowledge. When the confirmation arrived there was an mmediate closing of all news channels into Downing street; no statements were forthcoming and no predictions were ventured even by the humblest clerks in the foreign office. The general attitude, guardedly expressed, was that Millerand "put one over" on Lloyd-George. There was still some tendency to hope that a misunderstand-ing had arisen somewhere and that explanations exchanged between Lloyd-George and Millerand would serve to clear up the apparent irreconcilable viewpoints of each.

Lloyd-George was discribed as "struggling valiantly" to find a way out for resumption of entente unity, but prospects admittedly were not

PARIS EXCITED OVER THE SPLIT WITH BRITAIN (BY EDWIN HULLINGER.)

United News Staff Correspondent.

Paris, August 12.—News of the rift between Great Britain and France is causing considerable excitement in Paris, and the English note, designed to reassure the French public, had exactly the opposite effect. The man in the street suddenly concluded that all his recent hopes of complete harmony bridging the channel had been false hopes and that the old rivalry was still operating beneath a crust of diplomatic good manners.

All observers in Paris sensed the fact that the people regard this divergence as no trifling matter. They take it that no such note as England's would have been deemed necessary or even advisable unless the situation had been serious.

The press in general attributed the break to Premier Millerand's recognition of General Wragel. This has falled to elicit the support of all the French people. Socialistic papers are particularly bitter in their references to the French "espousal of the white government of Russia." Russia." Liberal Russians in Paris, although opposed to the bolsheviki, regard the French move as a mistake. The red northern forces have been heavily reinforced and pushed to within thirty miles of the capital. The Poles are making a desperate stand on defenses hastily thrown up around Pultusk, and, although tadly equipped, half trained and not too well supplied with ammunition, they are holding their own, according to the latest news reaching Paris. But the battle is swaying to and fro and the issue still is in the balance.

There is little change on the remainder of the front, except in the south, where the activity of the bolshevik general, Budenny, is creating a new danger. Budenny either can push northward between the Bug and Vistula rivers and hamper the concentration and movements of Polish reserves, or move southwestward-to turn the Polish defenses on the East Galiclan rivers, swoop down upon Lemberg and eventually Dear, I certainly wish you were up here with me now. My, but you are the dearest person on earth. Gee, I can't hardly wait until tomorrow evening to see you. I didn't ever dream I could love any one so much as I love you. Dearest, if I thought for one minute that you would ever stop loving me, why, I wouldn't want to live any longer. You certainly are one dear. You have been nicer than any one has been to me since I was married even more so I received your letter and was certainly glad to get it. Dear, I was awfully sorry that I could not of the street car yesterday at West End, but I don't think it will be very serious. I hope not, anyway. Dear, why didn't you come on into town this morning as long as you came as far as you did. I would all you up if I knew it wouldn't get you in trouble. Contrary to obvious expectation of spectators, the defendant betrayed no feeling in her face while Solicitor Napier re-read to the jury the alleged love letters of Mrs. Bradstreet and made comments upon their various contents.

In referring to Mrs. Bradstreet's letter to Green, telling him he was "too good" to her, the solicitor said: "That, gentlemen, is woman's oldest artifice. What man is there who won't redouble his efforts for his wife's comfort and happiness when she begins to tell him he is being too good to her?"

Judge Hutchison charged the jury briefly and they retired at 5:55.

Morning Session.

After the testimony of D. B. Entering the courtroom at 8:40, Green passed behind the chair of Mrs. Bradstreet, but they took no notice of each other, apparently. Their eyes met for the first time when Green had taken the stand and had been sworn, but no sign of recognition was evident.

Calm But Pale.

Calm But Pale.

Green, though calm, was pale, evidently from his severe illness, and seemed much thinner than at his trial in March.

Questioned by Attorney Harrison, for the defense, Green said that he had been introduced to Mrs. Bradsteet in August, 1918, as "a rich banker," and that he believed the woman worthy of the loans which he made her. He also admitted giving her presents. Regarding Mrs. Bradstreet's knowledge of where the money was coming from he said that, as far as he knew, the defendant believed the money to come from him, and no one else. Green denied that the bill at J. P. Allen's was for clothing for Mrs. Bradstreet, and admitted checks drawn in transactions for the home on St. Charles avenue. He identified many checks for clothing, furniture and clothing as his own.

Shorn of Beauties.

(From The New York Svening Sun.)

What's going to happen to the republic of Georgia if Americans and Europeans stopping there contine to carry off her fine looking girls? Next to bolshevism the principal product of this part of the Caspian sea district is beautiful women—big Brunhilda blondes and petite brunettes, as well as the strawberry type that follows in the wake of white horses. In fact, any variety of the fair sex one likes best can be found in Georgia, and British, French and of late many Americans, have been doing the Lochinvar and bearing back Georgia brides to the West.

"Everybody in Georgia that is anybody at all is a prince or princess," explained Miss Katherine Dokoochieff, just arrived here from Tiflis, where she took refuge three years ago from bolshevist activities in her home. That Will Rogers, late star of the New York Follies, is as great an entertainer on the screen as he is on the stage, was apparent to all who saw the big fellow's latest picture, "Jes' Call Me Jim," at the Forsyth Thursday, where he began an engagement of three days.

Mr. Rogers plays the part of Jim Fenton, a happy-go-lucky hunter and trapper, who lives near a small village on the border of civilization, his love for the pretty miliner in the village urges him on to deeds of kindness and heroism that really form the plot of the story. BODY OF GEN. GORGAS REACHES NEW YORK

New York, August 12.—Simplicity marked the return to this country today of the body of Major General William C. Gorgas, former surgeon who died in London last month. Borne back to home shores on the United States transport Pocahontas, the casket was met at Hoboken by a guard of honor from the Thirteenth infantry, lowered to the dock and carried through a lane of army welfare workers. Captain Richard H. Gorgas, the general's youngest brother, stepped forward and draped over the coffin an American flag. That ended the ceremony.

The casket was then taken on the ferryboat to New York and placed in a special room at the Pennsylvania station, to lie there in state until departure of the train for Washington.

Marietta. Ga., August 12.—(Special.)—In a sworn affidavit made here today before W. E. Schilling, notary public, Mayor Jim Brumby emphatically repudiates r statement appearing in Hearst's Atlanta paper this afternoon to the effect that he served on the reception committee that greeted Thomas W. Hardwick when he arrived here yesterday to make an address in the interest of his candidacy for governor. According to Mayor Brumby, there is no truth in the statement whatever, and he is at a loss to understand how such a deliberate misstatement of fact could have been made.

Mayor Brumby positively asserts in his affidavit that he was not a member of the committee, and he points out that a great injustice has been done him by the paper in question in placing his name on the reception committee. He states further, that the injustice was made even greater by the placing of his name at the head of the list, thereby creating the impression that hewas chairman of the committee, when, as a matter of fact he had nothing whatever to do with the Hardwick meeting.

COX SENDS GREETING TO SENATOR HARDING

Marion, Ohio, August 12.—A trip by Senator Harding to the Twin Cities of Minnesota early in Sep-tember, to speak on agricultural issues at the state fair, is under serious consideration by the repub-lican nominee and his political ad-visers.

lican nominee and his political advisers.

An invitation to attend the fair has been on the senator's desk for several weeks, and after a conference today with Minnesota republican and agricultural leaders he said he felt strongly inclined toward acceptance.

That the candidate also is thinking of the tariff issue as a prominent feature of his campaign was revealed by him in making public a telegram to California regarding the fruit industry. The telegram said the republican party would stand for protective schedules to prevent injury of American interests by after-the-war competition, and Senator Harding added in discussing the message that he felt the tariff question was bound to come more and more to the front during the next few months.

tion was bound to come more and more to the front during the next few months.

While the senator was at work in his office on the speech he will deliver to the Ohio Republican Editorial association, the democratic presidential nominee, Governor Cox, passed through Marion on his way to open his campaign at Camp Perry, Ohio, and sent a message of greeting to his republican opponent. Alighting for a few minutes while his train halted, the governor shook hands with a cluster of people on the station platform and then said to a group of newspaper correspondents assigned to Harding headquarters:

"Boys, tell Senator Harding that I wish him good health and good luckin everything but one."

When the message was delivered to the senator a mile away he smilingly replied:

"That's generous enough of the governor, I'm sure."

Hatfield Believes In "Personal Touch" At All Conventions

That "the personal touch of a good reception committee is worth infinitely more than the most lavish entertainment," is one of the dictums of Charles F. Hatfield, secretary and general manager of the St. Louis convention publicity and tourist bureau, who is in Atlanta with the National Commissary Managers' association and who did much toward obtaining the 1921 convention of that organization for this city.

convention of that organization for this city.

Mr. Hatfield is a warm friend of Fred Hamlin, manager of the Atlanta tourist and convention bureau, and, together with Dave W. Webb, president of the Atlanta Advertising club, they formed tentative plans for the convention of Advertising Clubs of the World, which will be held in Atlanta next year. Commenting on this convention, Mr. Hatfield said that a million dollars worth of publicity is going to Atlanta. He is enthusiastic over the $300,000 advertising campaign to "Sell Georgia."

Mr. Hatfield thinks that the personal touch in entertainment should be exploited at all conventions. He highly commends the idea of paying special regard to transient visitors and decries the fact that numerous tourists leave the United States every day for journeys in foreign lands. He believes in the slogan, "Know 2 America." and thinks that Atlanta should advertise her attractions extensively to attract fourists to this city.

RAINFALL FAILS TO HALT BUSINESS AT CURB MARKET

Although the weather's sluice gates were opened yesterday, patrons of the Atlanta curb market donned their raincoats and overshoes, farmers threw tarpaulins over their produce and as a result there was another big day. Mrs. Hannabery, chairman of the market committee, in the absence of Mrs. Norman Sharp, was much enthused over the $6,000 sales.

Dressed chickens sold at 60 cents a pound, while cooped chickens went at 50 cents a pound. Vegetables sold in large quantities were butterbeans, squash, corn, tomatoes, okra, beans and, as a special inducement to housewives, pickled peaches and other fruit were in stock. Mrs. Hannabery announces that these canned and pickled fruits will be brought regularly to the market by the farmers' wives. The market will open again Saturday morning at 6 o'clock.

Big Issues That Must .Be Faced.

Faced.

(From Leslie's.)

Regardless of platforms, theories, compromises, or bosses, the next administration will have to find a practical way of dealing with a threefold group of problems bequeathed us by the war. No cutand-dried program will work. The issues will have to be handled as they arise in accordance with the fundamental principles of our constitution. And it will be impossible to postpone these issues. They must be faced and settled, and settled right. Watson, candidate for the United tates senate. The legion members hade it plain that they did not rish to enter politics, but as one member expressed it, "We cannot be ttacked in an underhand manner ethout resenting it and showing Watson and Thomas W. Hardwick for their alleged unpatriotic utterances.

The resolutions were submitted by Charles E. Martin, former captain in the overseas American army, who declared that Watson in his attack on the legion is "not only an unmitigated liar in every charge he has made, but the most colossal ignoramus in Georgia for thinking the people will be hoodwinked by his lies."

In the debate on the motion the policy of including Hardwick in the denunciation was questioned by Attorney William King Meadow, who stated in the course of his remarks that since Hardwick had made no point-blank attack on the legion it would be rather in the nature of throwing the legion into politics to include him. Captain Martin and S. A. Goodson replied to the objections by rehearsing Hardwick's record of opposition to every cause for which the soldlers were fighting in Watson's candidacy is branded as an insult to the people of Georgia, and the condemnation of Hardwick is not less bitter. The post made it clear at the meeting, however, that no attempt would be made by its members to interfere with any meeting or speech making by Watson or Hardwick in this county. The legion's members are concerned Watson and Hardwick will not be molested or interfered with when they come to Lowndes county.

upon them, and not upon the governor to see that a revenue was provided adequate, to meet all the appropriations they might authorize. In taking the stand that they did, they relieved the governor of the necessity of vetoling the appropriations and eliminated all possibility of an extraordinary session, the futility of which had been fully demonstrated by the stubborn attitude of the senate majority and by the present political situation. Never were men more earnest and sincere, or actuated by a higher sense of patriotic obligations.

Carefully Planned Defeat.

The defeat of the appropriations was most carefully planned and carried out by the proponents of tax reform in both branches of the general assembly. With the exception indicated, the only appropriation bills to get through were $475,000 for pensionthe service pension act, $300,000 adsanitarium at Milledgeville, $20,000 for the tuberculosis sanitarium at Alto, $7,500 to maintain the office of superintendent of printing and $5,000 to the board of entemology for the inspection of calcium arsenate used in fighting the boll nate used in fighting the boll weevil.

All of these measures were passed by the senate without amendment, and accordingly not returned to the house. In the case of the sanitarium at Milledgeville, the senate committee had reduced the house bill to $275,000 but the senate refused to adopt the amendment, leaving the house figure, $300,000, to stand.

In some cases state institutions were left without any maintenance appropriations at all. This was true of the school for mental defectives, located near Augusta, which the out acts of this kind.

The disposition of the Bahnsen matter by the unanimous passage of the Johnson resolution, deferring action in the case to the next general assembly, came as a surprise, but seemed to satisfy everybody. The efforts made in the rules committee to suppress the question had met with most strenuous opposition and thad aroused a feeling of resentment among a majority of the house who were determined that the body in some form this year.

of the school for mental defectives, located near Augusta, which the general assembly created last year, and for which the state paid $100, 000. It was also true of Bowden college, a new institution taken over last year as a branch of the university. The senate had cut the appropriation for the Augusta institution from $30.000 to $20.000. No cut had been made in the Bowden appropriation, but the senate had actually added $5.000 for repairs. This school, however, was included in a bill for other institutions, and it fell with them.

Pitiful Piight of Veterans.

Even more pitiful than these cases was the fate of the appropriation, piloted through the house by Judge Sweat, of Ware, devoting $5,000 to repairs to the roof of the Confederate Soldiers' home and otherwise making the building habitable for its honored inmates. This the senate not only reduced to $1,000, but, through the ill-advised friends of capitol employees whoge salaries had been raised, but no appropriation provided, tacked on nearly $18,000 to pay these salaries. The entire bill fell through amid a whirlpool of negative house votes, and the veterans will be compelled to endure for another year their leaky home.

Vote on Covington Motion.

Judge Covington, of Colquitt, made the motion to amend the report of the rules committee to get the investigating committee's majority and minority reports and the Williams resolution before the house. A majority voted that these reports should be read as matters of information, thereby securing their entry on the house journal. Then before a vote was taken on the Covington motion, Mr. Wohlwender, of Muscogee, secured unanimous consent that the house should not act until it had the transcript of the evidence before it. Nobody objected as it appeared manifestly unfair to try any man without the evidence. Then Mr. Johnson got a ruling from the speaker to put his resolution as privileged matter, he having first secured the unanimous consent of the house to have it read. The speaker was warmly congratulated for the manifest fairness with war record overseas.

Baby usually cuts its first teeth soon after the fifth month. The time varies in different families and time varies in different families and may be delayed by prolonged illness, but slow or painful dentition is generally caused by improper feeding, which produces indigestion, faulty elimination and undernourishment. This lack of nourishment causes slow formation of the teeth, and naturally much pain when they come through, as in later months baby's gums are harder.

And so this is the kind of evidence that the Hearst propaganda is spreading with the view of misleading the loyal people of Georgia, hoping thus to shake their adherence to the sacred traditions of their fathers and forefathers.

No wonder Mr. Beard is opposed to everything for which the American Legion stands, and no wonder he is cited as a brilliant exponent of the element that is backing the Hearst newspaper in its criticisms of the American Legion because it has appealed to the manhood of Georgia to be true to the country, true to the flag and true to the memory of the thousands of Georgia boys who now sleep amid the poppies in the "Fields of Flanders."

Please give your opinion as to anti-typhoid and anti-pneumonia by the development of specific projects. It is a fact that many of the arguments used about the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence apply also to the proposed waterway and canal. I also want to suggest that if this matter is taken up actively and brought to the attention of the interested states, it can become a national project, and it will then receive the support necessary to its completion.

His work in this one matter stamps Governor Dorsey as one of the far-seeing men of his time.

The petitioner claimed that her husband had threatened her life, and that she was afraid of him. Smith was arrested several days ago following a shooting which took place on the Cascade road, in which J. C. Askew, a Jitney driver, was severely wounded.

Our Exchange Plans On Diamonds

Every solitaire we sell bears a contract under which it is returnable at full cash price in part payment for a more expensive stone. We also allow the full old gold value for the mounting.

This liberal plan permits you to gradually purchase as large a stone as you desire without going into debt. During the time of buying you have the pleasure of wearing a diamond that is wholly yours.

The exchange contract applies on solitaires sold on deferred payments as well as those sold on a cash basis. All of our diamonds are marked in plain figures, so you are sure of getting the larger stone as cheaply as though you paid all cash.

MR. CLAYT ROBSON REJOICES

Mr. Clayt Robson's broad red countenance glowed with pleasure.

His two hundred and more pounds of chest and girth swelled with visible pride, then the long, thin legs, clad in creamy brown, creased to a razor edge, broke into a highland fling of joy just without the Senate Chamber of Georgia.

Mr. Robson had scored again. His hand had lost none of the cunning that used to tie the Legislature in knots when Georgia was struggling to free herself from the incubus of the liquor interests.

A smile, like the smile that has brought lasting fame to the cat which swallowed the canary, drew the corners of the mouth of the Italian-like face of Mr. Roland Ellis, Attorney for the Georgia Light Railways & Power Company of Massachusetts, the Company having its hooks in Macon and middle Georgia.

Mr. Alex Lawrence, of Lawrence and Abrams, lawyers who have represented public utilities interests before the Railroad Commission of Georgia in matters involving rates for Savannah, in which city the rates charged by Stone & Webster for lights are four times as high as the rates in Hamilton, Ontario-

Mr. Lawrence, now a member of the House and its Rules Committee, was vis-

So, too, was Mr. Wohlwender, of Columbus and Muscogee, where Stone & Webster again collect for light approximately twice as much as they charged their customers in Seattle.

And Senator Ivan Allen and Representative John Y. Smith, both of Atlanta, whose people are being bled at the rate of over three times as much as the bills for light paid in Toronto, whence came to Georgia three or four incorporators of the Georgia Railway and Power Company—

Messrs. Allen and John Y. Smith beamed with delight.

THE WATER POWER BILLS WERE DEAD

Coal at $15.00 a ton will mount higher-

Mothers and babies may suffer from cold, while the wanton waste of 21,-528,500 tons of coal a year goes on-

Industries may be kept away from Georgia-

Cotton gins and factories may close for lack of power-

The majority of town and city homes, our farms, and thousands of villages will remain dark and powerless-

Drudgery growing greater with vanishing servants may increase the evermounting number of women insane from overwork-

Raging waters, which should be helping to bear our people's burdens, will again ravage bound and helpless Georgia, tear crops from her arms, gash barren red guiches across her breast and strip away the soil, which nature has made rich enough to nourish all of her children and millions more-

The floods may destroy homes in country and town and drown our people, bringing a curse instead of the blessing which God created the waters to give— But Mr. Clayt Robson can well afford to dance and chuckle with glee just without the Senate door-Messrs. Ellis, Lawrence, Wohlwender, Allen and John Y. Smith may be wreathed in smiles. They have worked well. The purpose of the Power Interests has been put across by these men and their associates. Their mother, the great State of Georgia, is securely tied for two more years. And the corporations are free to continue their looting.

BUT GEORGIA LIVES— REMEMBERS

The Yazoo Land Fraud was not undone in a day.

The value of the Yazoo Lands at the time of the attempted steal was a trifle in comparison with the annual loss in our undeveloped water powers of the equivalent of 21,528,500 tons of coal, worth at $10.00 a ton, $215,528,500.

The water power thrown away each year in Georgia as a part of the great financial game played by corporations in the North, while women and children shrink from the coming winter without coal, shiver in darkness and drudge their lives away in Georgia, equals the labor of 25,830,200 men, more than twice the total negro population of the whole United States, and labor is needed as never

Why, six of the 116 cities of Georgia, if they use for lights alone the same amount of current actually used and paid for in a year by six similar cities in Ontario, will lose each year in excessive bills $3,553,591, which is more than all of the Yazoo Lands were worth at the time of the fraud that was undone. One hundred and eight of these towns and cities asked for lief by the passing of the Water Power Bills. Progress is being made. A year ago a somewhat similar Bill received only one vote in one Committee, that of the leader in the fight for these measures today, Representative Covington, of Colquitt. The Water Power Bills were favorably recommended by the two Committees on Constitutional Amendments in Senate and House. The Rules Committee of the House, of which Speaker Holder is Chairman, and Representative Neill, of Muscogee, is Vice Chairman, with Messrs. Lawrence, of Chatham, John Y. Smith, of Fulton, and Wohlwender, of Columbus, leading methods, effectually blocked the Bills by refusing to let them come to a vote in

Monday morning, the last day possible for the passage of the Bills, in a desperate effort to break the block and force a vote, friends of the measure went to President Olive of the Senate, where similar Bills had been introduced.

President Olive got quick action.

By four o'clock the Bills were being debated on the floor of the Senate. But it was too late. While the debate was on, the House across the Capitol adjourned, making it impossible to enact the Bills this year in spite of the splendid fight for them made upon the floor of the Senate by Senators Rabun, Smith, Kea, Kendall, Flynt and Pittman.

But a vote was taken, which will be historical. It is the first record of a vote upon these Bills, the principles of which are certainto become a part of the law of Georgia.

Those voting for the Bills were: Senators Brooks, Duncan, Elders, Flynt, Harbin, Kaigler, Kea, Kendall, Larkins, Pittman, Rabun, Ragedale, Shingler, Smith, Wallace and Wood. Those opposed: Senetors Adams, Allen, Barrett, Bell, Blasingame, Bowden, Bussey, Calhoun, Clements, Cureton, Dixon, Ennis, Glenn, Hogg, Keene, Kirkland, Maynard, Neidlinger, Nix, Olive (not the President of the Senate), Pruett, Reece, Rice, Steed, Veazey, Vickery and

Next year, after another twelve months of increasing coal and power famine, and more horrors of floods, which may God in His mercy forbid, when all Georgia understands that the Water Power Bills are the only means offered for relief—

And when our people, Senators and Representatives clearly see and know the forces at work to keep them tied and helpless, unable to use the power given them by God, while the Power Companies loot their properties-

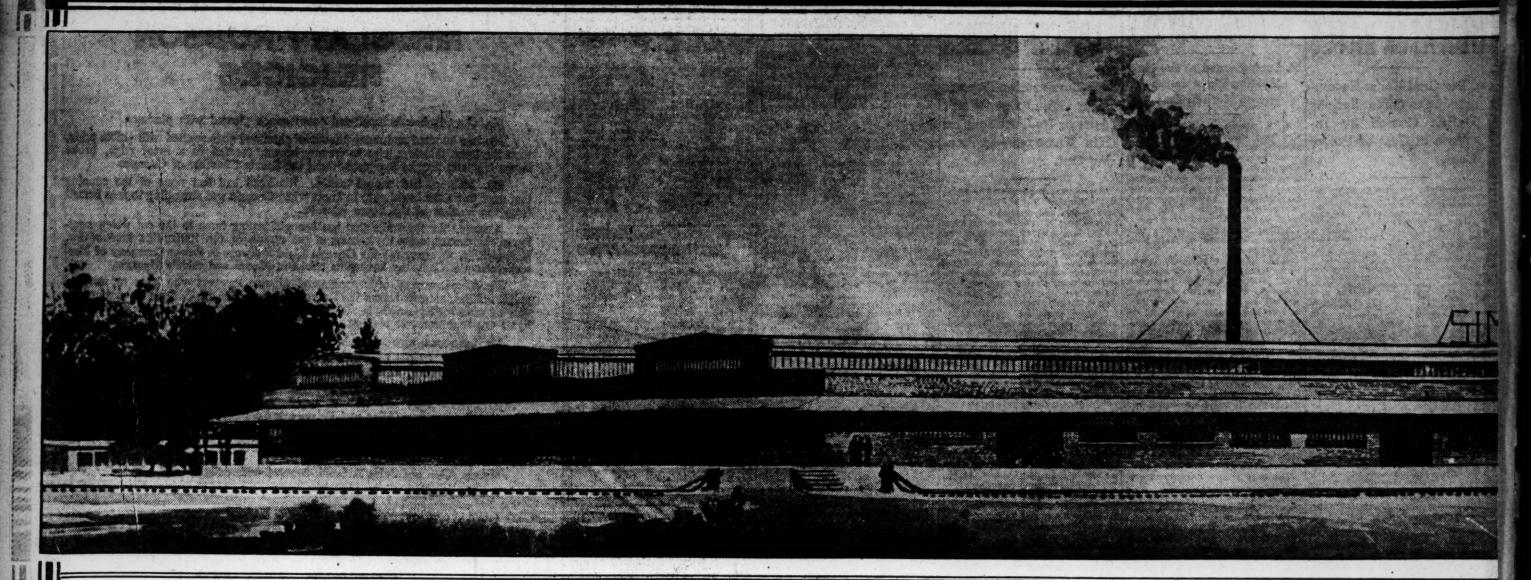

Senate and House, we believe, will agree-

Three Prime Factors Necessary Management

"No Institution Is Bigger Than Its Management"

THOMAS H. MARS, President

Mr. Mars was born in Chicago, Ill., in 1882, of American parentage. He was educated in the public schools with a two-year special training in engineering, under W. J. Arnold, Rockford, Ill., which school was later absorbed by the Illinois University. He passed examination and was appointed to West Point, but did not attend and instead took a position as Chief Draftsman with the Deering Harvester Company in the Steam Tractor Department for one year, and during this period took a mechanical lecture course at the Armour & Lewis Institute. He worked his way right up through the shops in the bicycle game and for three years was with the Continental Engineering Company.

He is strong physically and mentally; is 6 feet tall and weights 215 pounds; is a strong executive and has spent his entire life in the industrial manufacturing business. He is an expert in manufacturing, and his whole system breathes thoroughness.

During a period of the war, he was in the service of the United States Shipping Board-Emergency Fleet Corporation, as Central States Manager of all Plants, manufacturing anything mechanical for the Government. He had charge of production, purchasing, inspection, commandeering, having a force of from 500 to 5,000 men and served directly under Mr. E. O. Sessions and Mr. Charles Piez of e United States Shipping Board. Had charge of 83 plants, involving over $100,-000,000.00 worth of work and personally requisitioned, took over and operated with his own crew a total of 18 plants. He stayed with the Shipping Board until the Armistice was signed.

For years Mr. Mars has had the laudable ambition to become the head of a large Automobile Manufacturing Company and it is to gratify this ambition, coupled with the opportunity of investment in the stock of the SIMMS MOTOR CAR CORPORATION, that induced Mr. Mars to head this Corporation.

Mr. Mars is General Manager of Manufacturing of the Edwards Valve & Manufacturing Company, of East Chicago, Indiana, manufacturing heavy duty, high pressure values for Navy Power House work in Plant No. 1. Plant No. 2 is now being used for the manufacture of Walker Internal Drive Truck Axles and Transmissions and Truck assembly, assembling two complete two-ton and one five-ton trucks per day, having formerly manufactured 3,000, 3-inch machines, in four-sizes for brass, iron and steel foundries. Plant No. 5 is used as a complete Brass and Monel Foundry. This entire plant is under the jurisdiction of this able executive, employing approximately 1,200 people, including all accounting, stores, paymasters, employment, planning, production, purchasing; in fact, everything except sales. Mr. Mars took carge of this plant immediately after the Armistice was

JACKSON H. SIMMS, Vice President and General Manager of Sales of the SIMMS MOTOR CAR CORPORATION, was born in Charleston, S. C., in 1885. He is now 35 years of age. He was reared in the South with the exception of the years spent in mechanical training in the North.

Mr. Simms is right now in the prime of life and is one of the most aggressive men of the South; his standing as a business man and citizen in the community in which he is known being beyond question, having been always identified with civic enterprises as well as the social life of his home town.

As a boy, Mr. Simms entered Steam Engineering work in building of locomotives, railroad cranes, etc., and after serving this experience, becoming interested in internal combustion motor work, and upon his request was transferred to the Automobile Plant owned by his Company to Providence, R. I.

While building automobiles he obtained the knowledge and experience necessary for the handling of parts and service, engineering and general shop control and was again transferred to the South in charge of resident engineering work, with headquarters in Atlanta, placing the Alco products, trucks and motor cars throughout the entire South, and increasing tremendously the Southern business of the American Locomotive Company.

Realizing the tremendous demand for a popular-price car, Mr. Simms became connected with the Chevrolet Motor Company, which was then headed by Mr. W. C. Durant, who is now President of the General Motors Corporation. At the time he took over the Chevrolet interests here, that car was practically unknown in the South and it was through his energy and perseverance and his sales ability that he was enabled to place over $50,000,000.00 in automobile products throughout the Knowledge gained from these connections, in addition to the intimate relation between he and the dealers, brought him to realize the demand for a popular-price car and being familiar with the conditions existing in the Automobile industry, both at home and abroad he conceived the idea and organized the Corporation, which now bears his name.

Mr. Simms' familiarity with both the markets of the United States and Europe, places him in position to secure the largest profits for the SIMMS MOTOR CAR CORPORATION, and its stockholders. Aside from the great territory of the United States, the markets of the world are ours, under the supervision of this able Executive. He knows where the markets are and how to get to them.

H. L. INNES, Production Manager

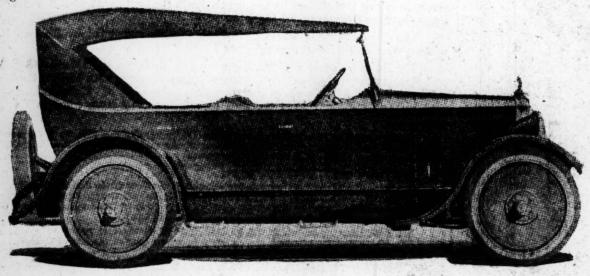

H. L. INNES is a Director of the SIMMS MOT CAR CORPORATION and is in complete charge of duction. Mr. Innes is a big man, who believes in and big things in a big way. He was born in Michigan in heart of the Automobile Industry. HE KNOWS AU MOBILE MANUFACTURING.

As a mere boy, Mr. Innes was Manager of Steam sels on the Great Lakes. At the age of 21 he took cha of Senator Clark's Mexican interests, these interests ning into an enormous investment, and, at the time he in the employ of Senator Clark, he employed the Do brothers as steam engineers in Mexico. They are builders of the famous Dodge Car.

After they severed connection with Ford, they be building the Dodge Car. Realizing that a man of much perience would be required in their organization, Innes was placed in charge of production. The num of Dodge Cars now operating speaks for itself.

From Dodge Brothers, Mr. Innes went over to Chevrolet Motor Company, as Production Manager, stalling their production system, also installing their en progressive assembly system, and his latest connec was with the Parrish-Bingham Corporation, Clevele Ohio, the largest manufacturers in the world of s stampings, automobile frames, etc.

Mr. Innes came South because of the fact that the So offers great opportunities for the manufacture and tributing of automobiles. Realizing this fact, he because heavily interested in Stock of the organization. His me ods are such as to deserve and inspire the confidence of

Real Demand for Popular-Priced Car

Expert Opinion—Basing its statements on an article which appeared in The New York Tribune, Current Opinion, May, says: "A prophet of the industry is quoted as saying that there is a market ahead for more than forty million automobiles, besides those already built, and the way he arrives at this conclusion is that the United States, with 106,000,000 people, has 7,600,000 automobiles, one for every fourteen persons, whereas in the rest of the world there are more than 1,565,000,000 people owning a total of 717,000 automobiles, or one for every 2,182 persons. Supposing, it is ingeniously suggested, that the rest of the world absorbs one car to every fifty persons, as is quite possible, there will be a market for 31,300,000 cars. Add to this an average of one car for every six persons in the United States or 9,000,000 additional cars, and the result is a total of 40,300,000 cars."

"One Good Investment Is Worth a Lifetime of Labor" - Milburn

There is a logical reason for Atlanta's supremacy in the jobbing and manufacturing business of the great South. Atlanta is in close proximity to all the large outlets for trade, both inland and seaport. Atlanta's railroads radiate like the spokes of a wheel. Automobiles delivered to the railroads for shipment from Atlanta will reach any section of the world as quickly, if not quicker, than from other large centers of the North. Evidencing this, we quote from the current issue of Motor Age, under date of August 5, as follows, vizt

"One of the largest shipments of automobiles that has ever been exported through a Southern port was recently shipped from the port of Mobile. The shipment included or cars manufactured by a Detroit concern and routed through Mobile to Rotterdam. Recently a large shipment of Toledo-made cars was shipped by way of Mobile, the routing of automobiles for export through the South Atlantic and Gulf coast port, innovation that evidences the growing importance of these ports and the developments of their facilities the past two or three years. Heretofore, virtually all automobiles ported from America went by way of New York, and it is only lately that middle western shippers have begun to realize the advantages accruing from exporting through Southern ports. The cost of freightage is probably no greater because of the equalization of rates, and has much less opportunity for shipments to become congested in the railroad yards, as is the case in eastern ports. Several of the automobile manufacturers of the middle west are taking the advantage of these conditions, and Southern ports are forging rapidly to the front in this respect."

By climatic comparison, the South is the logical manufacturing section of the United States. Any type practically of manufacturing may be carried on the year round with little of the fuel trouble of the northern or western sections, and proximity to the Seaboard is very often a decided advantage. Then, too, in the trade balance there is little difference in manufacturing in Oshkosh and shipping to Atlanta, say, or manufacturing in Atlanta and shipping to Oshkosh-Remember, "coals are carried to Newcastle," the mistaken proverb notwithstanding.

Biggest Years Ahead

It is a matter of cold figures that each year the automobile and truck industry, with its different equipment, has been greater than the one which preceded. Market conditions and production schedule for 1920 prove plainly that the present year will be no exception to the rule.

Road improvement is the order of the day throughout the country. Portions that have heretofore been available for motor travel only at brief seasons are now open the year round. And good roads multiply the number of automobiles in use wherever they are laid.

The end of the great war has opened an export demand far in excess of anything yet experienced.

Regarding domestic demand, it is well to bear in mind that the average user keeps his automobile but two years, when he sells it and buys another. This condition, absolutely without assistance from the great, new, annual demand, insures a market in America alone for millions of automobiles each year.

Washington, August 12.—Permission to increase express rates to absorb the wage award of the railroad labor board at Chicago, estimated at $43.800,805, was asked from the interstate commerce commisson today by the American Railway Express company.

The express company also asked authority to increase by 20 per cent its rates on milk and cream to meet the increase granted the railroads on the same commodities, In its petition the express com-

NEW YORK UNRAVELS ITS TRAFFIC TANGLE

New York, August 12.—New York today settled down to the task of working itself out of the traffic tangle in which it became involved several months ago through differences between coastwise steamship lines and union teamsters.

Although announcement was made last night that these differences had been adjusted, the citizens' transportation committee, which had been operating trucks to keep freight moving, decided today to continue operations until September I, in order to aid in cleaning up prevailing congestion.

At the same time, William Simmons, general freight and passenger agent of the Southern Pacific Steamship company, announced that embargoes on southbound coastwise shipments of freight, put into effect some time ago because of the long-shoremen's strike, had, been lifted.

Labor conditions, Mr. Simmons added, are "now practically normal, and freight from interior points, carloads or less, with exception of structural steel, will he received as tendered and forwarded promptly. The Southern Pacific company, known as the Morgan line, operates a service between New York, New Orleans and Galveston. Lifting of the embargo permits shipment of goods on existing rates before the advance on August 26.

MERCHANTS PREDICT A PROSPEROUS YEAR

in the assembly room of the chamber of commerce.

The morning assembly was the only business meeting of the convention, which will last three days, ending Saturday. Large numbers of merchants from the various parts of the southeast were present. In addition to Mr. Johnson's address, talks were made by J. K. Orr, William L. Percy and other members of the association, after which various topics of interest to the association men were discussed. James J. Ragan, president of the Atlanta association, presided.

No action was taken regarding the proposal of the Southern association, as the time of the morning meeting was limited. However, it is thought that the matter will be decided before the end of the convention.

The rails acted very well and seem inclined to respond easily to any constructive influence.

The outlook for commodity prices in view of the newer factors that have been introduced, seems somewhat confused, although the general opinion seems to favor a continued downward tendency of the index number. There is some fear that the increase in railroad rates may be used as a pretext for profiteering, but this possibility has been so well canvassed in advance that those who might be inclined to take advantage of the situation will be likely to hesitate.

Railroad authorities throughout the country declare that while the increased rates have a tendency to raise prices slightly, this will be overcome by the more efficient and speedly handling of freight. On the other hand, dealers in many commodities say that the new rates are bound to cause prices to advance. They assert that while better freight deliveries will undoubtedly increase the available supply of all commodities the condition will not be a permanent one. Stocks of shoes, clothing and other necessities, since the first of the current year, they say, have been in excess of the demand, and the speeder deliveries will and other necessities, since the first of the current year, they say, have been in excess of the demand, and the speeder deliveries will and other necessities, since the first of the current year, they say, have been in excess of the demand, and the speeder deliveries will any the probability that the increase the first of the current year, they say, have been in excess of the demand.

New York, August 12.—The cotto

New York, August 12.—The cotton market was nervous and unsettled today, with early advances followed by reactions. December sold off from 30.75 to 30.15 and closed at 30.32, with the general market closing steady, net unchanged to 50 points lower.

The opening was 15 to 35 points lower owing to lower Liverpool cables, rather a less cheerful feeling over European affairs and liquidation by some of yesterday's buyers, who were evidently disappointed by the report of a prominent southern authority placing the mid-month condition at 75.5, compared with rumors of considerably lower figures. The early offerings were well absorbed owing to the continued rains in the belt, and active months sold about 20 to 35 points net higher before the end of the morning, with October touching 31.95 and January 29.50. There was local southern buying on this advance, which was promoted by reports of a stiffer spot basis in the southwest owing to rains delaying the movement and damaging the grade of early cotton. Support became less active toward midday, however, and when the detailed weather reports, showing fully as much rain as expected. midday, however, and when the detailed weather reports, showing fully as much rain as expected, failed to stimulate further buying, prices turned easier. Brokers with Japanece connections were active sellers of December, and there was liquidation by early buyers on the decline, which carried October off to 31.34 and January to 28.90, or about 25 to 50 points net lower on active months. Closing prices were within a few points of the lowest on most positions. Private cables said the Liverpool market was affected by the Franco-Russian situation, and there were somewhat conflicting reports as to the Texas spot basis in the late trading.

The net results of the day's trading were declines of 20 to 26 points.

Summary for the Cotton Region States.

New Orleans, August '12.—Maximum temperatures are below normal in central districts; otherwise seasonable temperatures prevailed. Rainfall was mostly light to moderate, but locally heavy in the Carolinas, Georgia, northern Florida, southern Louisiana and Oklahoma. Numerous showers, mostly light to moderate, fell in Alabama, and scattered showers in Tennessee, Mississippi, western Arkansa and northern and eastern Texas.—Cline.

Minimum temperatures are for 12-hour period ending at 7 a. m. this date.

z Highest yesterday, † Lowest for 24 hours ending 8 s. m., 75th meridian time, except where otherwise indicated.

NOTE—The "state of weather" is that prevailing at the time of the observation.

C. F. VON HERRMANN,

PROFESSIONAL VIEWS ON COTTON SITUATION

New York, August 12.—(Special.)—It is our opinion that as we are in the period where setbacks to the crop can be expected and in view of the fact that the weather continues unfavorable in this regard it would be advisable to take advantage of opportunities such as were presented in the decline this afternoon to make purchases.

JOHNSTON BROS.

New York, August 12.—(Special.)—Our advices from the south are that continued rains are beginning to cause considerable damage to the crop. So far, however, little attention is paid to this feature of the situation and the feeling here is again becoming extremely bearish. We do not care to follow the decline at the present time because unless the weather clears the crop can deteriorate very rapidly.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.

New York, August 12 .- (Special.) - We cannot advise purchases at this level be-cause political and economic conditions are operating against any sustained advance. Natural recoveries, of course, should be ex-pected. J. W. JAY & CO. New York, August 12.—(Special.)—The future market seems to be a scalping affair for the present. ORVIS BROS. & CO.

ORVIS BROS. & CO.

New Orleans, August 12.—(Special.)—Returns to the National Ginners' association average the condition of 75.5 versus 76.5 two weeks ago, when the bureau was 74.1, Our private Liverpool cable of even-date denotes Manchester to be doing good business, statements to the contrary notwithstanding. According to the British board of trade report, British textle business last month was as follows:
Shipment of cloth, yards, this year, 350, 200,000; last year, 276,100,000.
Shipments of yarn, pounds, this year, 15, 300,000; last year, 13,630,000.
About the 16th instant the census bureau will issue a report on the quantity of cotton consumed in the United States during July. Returns will compare with 555,000 bales consumed during June of this year and 510,000 for July of last year. The statement will tend to prove or disprove current reports that consumption in America is being curtailed by closing of mills.

H. & B. BEER.

H. & B. BEER.

New Orieans, August 12.—(Special.)—For the time being the market is chiefly controlled by developments in the foreign political situation, but we think this situation will clear up shortly, and if the rainy weather over the belt continues in the meanwhile, the market is likely to have a strong recovery some time in the near future. Consquently we favor buying on any further decline. The census bureau report on consumption for the last month of the season, July, will be issued Saturday, and is expected to make a bullish showing.

NORMAN MAYER & CO.

New Orleans, August 12.—(Special.)—We are inclined to the opinion that all ordinary market factors should be considered in the light of developments abroad.

Rumors of Heavy Buying

Also Makes Gains.

New York, August 12.—Prices of stocks were advanced again today. Apart from an interval of heaviness at the start, and some yielding at the close, when traders took profits, the trend was upward. Prominence given to the developments in the Russo-Polish situation produced early selling, which carried down the list from 1 to 3 points. Pressure soon ceased and the market gradually crept upward on diminished dealings.

By the early afternoon all losses had been recovered and many stocks ruled 1 to 2 points above yesterday's final figures. The advance was accomplished in face of a steady fall in sterling, which dropped five cents, after opening one cent higher. Fallure to cause liquidation during the early pressure induced the shorts to cover later, and their buying was primarily responsible for the subsequent strength. Low-priced oils, sugars, motors, rubbers, shippings, tobaccos, steels, International Nickel, United States Alcohol and American Chicago. August 12.—Wheat made a lively advance in price today. By the early afternoon all losses had been recovered and many stocks ruked 1 to 2 points above yesterday's final figures. The advance was accomplished in face of a steady fall in sterling, which dropped five cents. after opening one cent higher. Failure to cause liquidation during the early pressure induced the shorts to cover later, and their buying was primarily responsible for the subsequent strength. Low-priced oils, sugars, motors, rubbers, shippings, tobaccos, steels, International Nickel, United States Alcohol and American Woolen were carried up smartly.

Railroads did not respond as well as the industrials when the general buying commenced.

The money market gave early indications of ease, the call rate falling to 6 per cent before midday, after renewals had been established at 7 per cent, Stringent conditions continued to prevail as to time money, virtually no funds being loaned, despite bids of 9 to 9½ per cent.

Bonds were irregular. Foreign issues were mixed and Liberty bonds continued to move uncertainly. United States old bonds were unchanged on call. Total sales, par value, were $9,225,000.

BRADSTREET SEES BUT LITTLE CHANGE IN LOCAL BUSINESS

Very little change is seen in local business conditions, according to Bradstreet's weekly report. Cutprice sales continue full blast, and very little disposition is apparent on the part of merchants to place orders except for their immediate needs. The report follows:

"There is little difference in the wholesale and retail business from last week. Wholesalers report continued conservatism in placing orders for future delivery. Marchants apparently are buying only for immediate needs. Large local retail dealers, especially in wearing apparel; continue to advertise extensively and carry on cut-price sales, which has stimulated trade to some extent. Collections are slow, and this fact is attributed partly to congested transportation facilities, and smaller merchants are not inclied to make payment on purchas wore the goods are received.

"No immediate relief is expected. Building is slowing up to some extent, due principally to inability to obtain material and the high prices of same. Money is tight, and this, too, has caused a slack in the building program. There has been considerable rain during the past week, which, together with moderate temperatures, were not altogether favorable for cotton. The progress was only fair. Cotton is gether favorable for cotton. The progress was only fair. Cotton is late and can, even under normal conditions, stand a great deal of rain in July and August and yet have time to mature a good crop. There is a complaint, however, of considerable shedding and conditions have favored the increased activity of weevils, Corn is practically safe. However, it is below normal. Sweet potatoes promise a very large yield. Peanuts are doing well. Pastures, hay and forage crops are good."

JACKS BIG CARD HERE

Aquatic contestants for the southern water meet to be held this afternoon and tomorrow at East Lake, are primed for action and everything is in readiness for the crack of the pistol which will start the participants in the first event of the tourney. Five teams are entered, with the crack Dallas team leading in advance dope and prestige.

The Atlanta stars have been working out in the lake with the pallas team all this week and the other teams are arriving today. The two stars of the Lone Star State are showing up in great form and are expected to repeat their great exhibition of last Saturday at Birningham.

Lee Jarvis and Jerry Witt, the two Dallas swimmers, who lowered the southern records in the 220 and the half mile, make the Dallas team the most formidable. The other teams entered are from Birmingham, sew Orleans and Camp Walton, Fla. Gibby Fraser, Scrappy Sullivan and Steve Hartney are the individual stars of the Atlantic Athletic lub, while E. F. Hatcher and Charey Peer are the second choice of Bill Logan's water squad. The other members of the team are Hugh faile; Harold McKenzie, breast troke, and Cureton. RUTH TELLS OF HIS MARRIAGE VICTOR SMITH AND FIRST TRIAL IN MAJORS

Babe Ruth spent only part of his first year in professional baseball as a minor leaguer. Five months after leaving St. Mary's Industrial school to join the Baltimore internationals, he went to the Boston Red Sox. Miss Helen Woodford, a Texas girl, was attending school in Boston. Ruth met her and in October, 1914, they were married in Baltimore. Babe did not find entirely clear sailing with the Boston team at first. After a month on the bench he was farmed out to the first. After a month on the bench he was farmed out to the Providence team, thus going back to the International feague again. But in September of the same year, he was recalled to Boston and finished the season there.

In 1915 he pitched twenty-five games for the Boston Red Sox and won eighteen of them.

Chapter 4.

Although I had been quite a home-run hitter on the old school lot and could now and then poke out a long one against a league pitcher, still Jack Dunn saw me as a pitcher rather than as a heavy sugger when the Orioles went out on the International circuit. I likied olitching well enough, but as a pitcher I could not bat in every game and my whole idea was to play ball every day and bat every day to earn my $1,800. Bat, especially. Somehow or other I never saw myself as a big pitcher, although the speed and the jumps were there in the old left arm. My idea of a wonderful time was knocking the ball where some one would have to climb the fence to get it. Jack Dunn saw something that I couldn't see because if you will look back to the Red Sox games in the world series of 1916 against Brooklyn and 1918 against the Cubs you will find a total of twenty-nine scoreless innings credited to me. And this was one inning more than any other pitcher had ever gone hitless in world series work.

Some ball players may know when there is an ivery hunter in the some Class D league scout had his eyes on me I might have believed it. But the surprise I got with the second boost, to $1,800 was nothing at all to the sensation Jack Dunn gave me a few days after that speech-making trip to Saint Mary's, when he told me that I was going to Boston. Perhaps he didn't think I was such a good pitcher after all.

I could hardly believe that I made a big league club in my first year out. Only five months since I had been a schoolboy, sliding on a pond in a Baltimore industrial school. And the salary was less believable—$2,500 a year.

On Septmber 2, I was back in Boston, and they gave me a chance to work. Altogether, I broke into the Sox score four times, before Boston did not have occasion to farm me out after that. It is true that I pitched only twenty-two innings and got no homers that year, but I had taken part in only four games and had done fairly well in one month of experience in the big time. I was waiting for 1915 to come around when I was sure I'd get my chance.

They started me twenty-five times in 1915. I won eighteen games and turned in seven defeats. This gave me a pitching average of ,720. The home runs did not come so easily me a pitching average of .720. The home runs did not come so easily against the expert pitching of the old heads and cunning arms of the big league moundsmen, as they had against the kids on the lot or the men who went up against the Orimuch attention, as a record of fou home clouts in a season was nothing to print on twenty four-sheet posters. However, my batting average for the year put me in the so-called charmed circle of .300 hitters. The end of the season found me with an average of .315, and only once since then have I dropped below .300. This was in 1916, when my average fell to .272. Remember, I was a pitcher, and pitchers are supposed to be rotten hitters. They thought around the Boston club that I would have to blow up in one department or the other before the 1916 season got far under way, because it just isn't done for a pitcher to win ball games and hit .300.

The season of 1916 was the least home clouts in a season was nothin

I was having much better luck in the game than Tom Padgett, a fine fellow and a good pitcher, who broke into baseball at school and was pitching for a small club in the Virginia league. Poor Tom would have made good I am sure, if he hadn't been killed in an accident. grass around it up in Sudbury, Mass. We spend most of our winters in Boston, because I have a cigar factory up there which takes some management.

Off the field we drop baseball. We motor together in the evenings or go to the Broadway musical comedies, but when the weather is bad, I sometimes sit at home and play the organ. No kidding; I do. She doesn't call me Babe. She callis me Hon. And what I call her is—between us.

But mv story is back to the baseball season of 1914, and I must return to it. When I arrived in Boston it seemed to me that there was nothing more for me to win in the way of honors. And because I felt that way, the blow was all the more harder when the Red Sox refused to take fire from my spirit and casually farmed me out to the Providence club of my old league, the International, after about a month on the bench. It was pretty disappointing to a young fellow who thought he was coming along fine, but I remembered the advice of Brother Matthias to "play the game," so I said nothing much and went to work for Providence.

Henry Westall, of Asheville, probably the most Seassoned entrant from the local club, lost his match to Berry Fleming, of Augusta, 4 and 3. This was a good match, but the Georgian was always a little better. Clarence Hobart, of Clearwater, Fla., won from E. L. Scofield, of Stamford, Conn., in a well fought round, 3 and 2. Fred Hyatt, of Columbia, S. C., champion of the Carolinas, walked away with J. T. Swann, of Tampa, 7 and 5. From the wonderful exhibition of golf shown by Hyatt today, it is generally conceded that it will be a hard task to keep him from copping the coveted trophy. Ulmer, Smith, Tucker and Hyatt are picked as the winners of tomorrow's matches. The former two and the latter two will meet in the semi-finals Friday afternoon.

THE VACATION TRUNK.
A QUAKER eased out the other day at the unripe age of 106 almanacs.

HE NEVER siphoned up the old nose varnish, chewed or smoked, but he could have done all three and lived to be older than sixteen turtles. Provided he never packed a vacation trunk.

CROWDING THE indestructible baggage is the Spanish inquisition THE BEST way to load the portmanteau is to first take ether like any other major operation. Then slap in everything you don't want on the trip and close the works.

UNDER THE NEW waterline handicapping system, a trunk is officially closed when the lid is within fourteen inches of the stream line body. After you have it all hermetically sealed and bonded, take the straps off the jig-saw puzzle again and let the cat out. Pomeranians in arms can travel half-fare, but a cat is always grown up.

IF YOUR WIFE'S mother is trying to reduce the high cost of living her son-in-law and is assisting your wife in dividing your vacation three, let the better fraction toss in her stuff first.

AFTER THE WIFE is through with her trousseau balloting it's your turn next. You couldn't crowd a huckleberry in there without first putting corsets on it. A wife is a woman who hasn't got a thing to wear plus two hundred pounds extra baggage charges.

ALWAYS STENCIL definite directions on the trunk. Otherwise, the baggage minstrels won't know whether you want it delivered granulated or pulverized.

YOU MIGHT be able to take an emergency collar button along if you don't mind a compound fracture of the ulna bone. There ain't any record of a man ever getting any property into a trunk after a woman has subsidized the packing acreage.

A VACATION trunk should have six handles like any other box connectes with the last sad rites. After everything is packed in, and your stuff is on the hotel dumbwaiter like a New England boiled dinner, try and close the wardrobe crate without blasting. Try and do it.

VACATIONS GENERALLY last about twenty-six weeks. Two weeks you and twenty-four for the trunk. Trunks always wind up on Mississippi and Yazoo railroad. There are very many silly tales in books ocncerning the old Franciscan missions of California, but the sillest of them all is that one which is forever cropping up to the effect that many hundreds of thousands of dollars in gold were hoarded in these establishments.

One has only to ask one's self, "Where did this huge store of money come from?" California had little traffic with the outside world in the days of the missions. Hides and tallow were traded to yankee ships for clothing and ornaments, but not for money. And gold had not yet been discovered here. There are very many silly tales William T. Meagan, who drove McGraw home in a taxi accompanied by Slavin and Winfield Leggett, a retired naval officer, changed his story Thursday. He admitted to Assistant District Attorney Marro that McGraw disapproved when the two Samaritans offered to see him to his own apartments. Turning, on Leggett, who was stepping out of the cab, the chauffeur said, McGraw sent him sprawling back into the tonneau. While the chauffeur sat half-turned in his seat, laughing at Leggett's predicament, he heard a thump on the sidewalk and looked down to see Slavin stretched out, unconscious—as he has been ever since.

Neither Slavin nor Leggett had Another Sleepless Night?

It's been a busy and fretful day. Brain fagged, nerves frayed and body exhausted—conscious that tomorrow is fraught with new trials and tribulations, he realizes the imperative need of a refreshing night's rest. Yet, he hesitates and dreads to go to bed lest he roll and toss throughout the night.

Do you experience the horrors of nightmare and insomnia? Are you troubled with wakeful, restless nights? Do you get up in the morning feeling more tired than when you went to bed, because your rest is so disturbed and broken? Then, try

Delegates From All
World Form International Chamber of Commerce at Meeting in Paris.

Washington, August 12.—Prohibition has taken the joy out of campaigning, political orators returned to Washington following primary battles declared today.

"The crowds don't yell at what I say any more," a speaker nationally known in political life complained.

"Without the applause there is no fun. I lose my own enthusiasm."

This campaigniner denied that he preferred to speak to "drunken audiences."

commerce. While the organization is to be thrown open to every nation in the world, the founding of the body was confined to America.

Great Britain, France, Belgium and Italy. These were the same nations that took part in the international trade conference in the fall of 1919 when the idea of a world chamber was first suggested. Two hundred delegates are from America.

The objects of the international everything.

"This year there are going to be more people attending political meetings with the idea of being against every candidate than ever before. Statements received with cheers before now will be received in critical silence in many cases."

"People generally are anxious to go places," it was pointed out. Increased attendance at theaters simely prohibition went into effect may be duplicated at the political gatherings when the campaign "warms up" in the autumn months, it is believed.

The discussion of prohibition and campaign meetings brought the commerce. While the organization everything.

while the chamber will have no governmental authority, it expects through the agreement of international business men to secure a just division of the raw materials of the world and the equitable settling of all shipping questions.

Business terminology is to be studied, in all languages, with the idea of evolving standard business expressions that mean the same in all parts of the world. For instance, "f. o. b." means "freight on board cars" in America and "freight on board ship" in Great Britain. There is this same disparity in the significance of other business code words and expressions in various countries which has often caused distrust between international relations. Probably the greatest difficulty to be faced by the international chamber will be under finance. Mr. Roosevelt's league of nations speech came as an answer to criticism that he avoided the issue in his Chicago speech last night. "To whom the sum of the responsibility for the plight of the responsibility for the plight of the splendid people of Poland upor those little narrow men in the United States senate—those little narrow men who today control the machinery of the republican party,"

"But for their desire to satisfy who is familian to the knocking at the gates of Marsaw."

Each nation's financial system is andoubtedly a reflection of national temperament. It therefore cannot be easily revised. In the stabilization of European industry financiers are bothered by double income taxes for one-thing—that is income taxes collected by both their native countries and by the countries in which investments are made. One whole afternoon session was devoted to financial reconstruction problems under the presidency of the British vice chairman presiding at an entire following day devoted to general financial problems.

Fahey Chairman.

Fahey Chairman. Commerce of the United States, was chairman of the organizing convention. It is proposed to establish an international headquarters somewhere in Europe *for the world chamber of commerce where each nation would have a commissioner and staff, expert in all lines of business. Reports as to international business conditions would be circulated among the commissioners and sent to various national chambers of commerce weekly for dissemination among the business men of each nation.

American delegates expressed themselves pleased with the returning prosperity of Great Britain, France and Belgium. Most industries seemed cheerfully at work again. The railroads of France are not only fairly well reconstructed, but are bussing with traffic. But the delegates, of course, are not pleased with the situation in eastern Europe.

sional District:
It is in answer to the request of the honorable delegates and alternates representing the counties of DeKaib, Rockdale, Campbell and Douglas, in the late state convention; in answer to the appeal of citicampoell and Douglas, in the late state convention; in answer to the appeal of citizens from all the walks of life in Atlanta and Fulton county; in appreciation of the expressed device of friends in all the countles comprising this district, who have been tind enough to say that they have faith in my purpose and ability to render good ervice to Georgia; and in compliance with he cherished ambition to serve this people in the national congress, that I have lecided to offer my name to the democratic oters of the Fifth congressional district in the nominating primary to be held on the thinday of September, 1920.

Primarily, I am bound by the platter, word for word, paragraph by paragraph, adopted by the Georgia state contains. With me there is no higher power than my own enlightened conscience; no ore binding authority than the declaim the official democracy of my state, expressed in results.

inding authority than the decision official democracy of my state, exto any other man who indorsed the and to any other man who indorsed the Wilson league of nations; it was opposed to Wilson dictation, and to federal interference in matters that concerned the liberties of the American citizen, and the rights of the American states; it was opposed to super-man government, anywhere and everywhere.

It was a convention of Georgians, whose delegates had inherited the spirit of American liberty; whose delegates had inherited the spirit of American democracy. They did not doubt. They did not hesitate. They declared for the inalienable rights of the American etizen and demanded that the rights of the American states be restored.

the rights of the American states be restored.

In presenting this platform of principles I wish to express the sincere hope that my honorable opponents in this race. Mr. Toshaw, the incumbent in office, and Mr. Hooper Alexander, candidate in vacation and prosecuting attorney on leave, approach the creat issues that so vitally concern the clitzen, the home and the state with that sincerity, directness and decision that these issues and the impelling conditions demand.

I am opposed to the league of nations, with or without reservations. The wisdom of Washington expressed in his prophetic warming as to the lurking dangers in entangling foreign alliances, presess upon the thought of our America today more seriously than at any time within the history of the constitution that gave to our country such builders as Madison, Jefferson and Monroe.

Smith-Watson Convention in Recent Presidential Preferential Primary

Interest was stimulated in the race for congress from the fifth district yesterday when Benjamin M. Blackburn, who was M. Watson's local representative in the presidential primary race, published his platform. Headquarters for Hooper Alexander, United States district attorney, were opened on the fifth floor of the Kimball house. Congressman William D. Upshaw is making the race to succeed himself, and his friends have been active for several weeks in his behalf.

Robert C. Ramspeck, insurance man, of Decatur, and former secretary to Congressman William Schley Howard, is managing Mr. Alexander's campaign. Watler McElreath, former representative in the house from Fulton county, is chairman of the Upshaw campaign committee, headquarters for which have already been opened in the Kimball house.

In his formal statement, Mr. Blackburn declares himself a supporter for Thomas W. Hardwick for poor the formas W. Hardwick for the fideral man.

I am opposed to compulsory military training mans the demanded in this land of compulsory military training mans the demanded in this land of compulsory military training mans the committee in the fideral mandement, that places federal ment and on the ighteenth amendment, that places federal ment and on the fiftenth amendment that would place federal bayonets about our election precincts. The answer that the latter would place federal bayonets about vertion, and I will support those demands.

I believe in the right of labor to organize I believe in the right of labor to creanize into unions for the purpose of better protection, the right to strike, and in the principle of collective bargaining.

There should be a co-operative feeling hetween capital and labor, and this can be brought about if a standard of exact fairness is maintained. One can not exist without the other, and both are necessary to the well-being of the whole.

I believe that every dollar, invested in whatever lecitimate way, should be protected in safe and reasonable splanies of the officers that may have organized that dollar into heleful industry.

I believe that the mon who work in the various departments of our nostal service, being amongst the most important factor in the coronalic and social extern, decoronalic arriers, postal clerks and employees, rural carriers, postal clerks and rostmasters, particularly of the third and fourth class. I favor liberal addition to the vocational I favor liberal addition to the vocational allowence to wounded soldiers who fought so valiantly and lost so much in the world war, and I will devote my best offorts to meking them safe from want. The bons allowed under a recent bill is an altocether insufficient recomition of heroic sacrifice. In local legislation I will, if elected, pronose an appropriation to build a government highway from Atlanta, along the hunks of the Chettahoochee river to Konnesew mountain. These are historic grounds. Memorial roads have been built by the government in the west, which establishes the recedent. This highway would give to Atlanta a we berful riverside drive. With the co-operation of other concressment the road might be strended to Rabun Gan on the north, and to Tybee light on the southern was also being the cartorical expression which typifies the extent of Georgia: "From Rabun Gap to Tybee light."

feasible to make the Chattahoechee river, by a system of locks, navigable to the cuif. If elected to concress, I will introduce a bill to have a thorough survey of this stream made in order to demonstrate the practicability of a project which, if successful, would be of incalculable benefit to Atlanta and the state.

It is not necessary for me to amounce my attitude as to candidates for hicher office. However, I have stated that I would not sidestep any matter that concerns the necosle. A prominent wholesale merchant said to me seeme days area: "Let Tom Watson alone and things will be all right as to your race for congress." My realy: "Yannt you, and all whom you represent, to know that I would not desort for personni or political gain a friend with whom I never had and can never have a personal difference, and I do not want the vote of any man who would have me renounce or needed this friend," For the United States sends I favor Mr. Thomas E. Watson, the greatest defendant of liberty in the world. For governor I am for Mr. Thomas W. Hardwick, able, true and unflinching. And I am for the national democratic ticket.

I challenge my two opponents, Mr. Unshaw, the incumbent in office, and Mr. Hooper Alexander, the candidate-prosecuting attorney on leave, to be as open, and to say for whom they stand.

In this connection I desire to protest the monstrous attitude of an administration that will allow a public official at a time when free speech is under the esplosage of the department of justice in Washington, to enter a contest for congresse while holding to the office of prosecuting attorney—presenting a relation to the voters of this district that is suggestive of the worst in deposed Russianism. It is enough to bring the great Tolstoi from his grave.

Mr. Upshaw says he should be given another term in congress in answer to the time-honored usage of giving a member on indorsement. That is all right, provided there is a record to indorse. But commensurate with this obligation that is invoked against the voter, should be some work of accomplishment on the part of the congressman. What has Mr. Upshaw don?

He otted for the send me to congress that it will bow to the dictation

BENJAMIN M. BLACKBURN.

The following statement was issued from Unehaw headquarters Thursday:

Mr. Alexander, with his usual and innat modesty, says that "it is hierly important that the fifth district be efficiently represented in congress." We agree with Mr. Alexander, hence the increased necessity of re-electing Mr. Upshaw, with his record of proven efficiency, since Mr. Alexander's announcement. We admire Mr. Alexander's announcement. We admire Mr. Alexander's discretion in holding on to the office of district attorney with one hand while running for congress with the other. Expressions from all parts of the fifth district in districts in this election as he carried counties when he ran for coverner.

Denies the Claim He Withdrew Charge Against Hardwick

The American Legion Anti-Watson-Hardwick campaign committee received a message Thursday from R. H. Freeman, Atlanta attorney. refuting the claim made by Hardwick and The Atlanta Georgian to wick and The Atlanta Georgian to the effect that charges of disloyalty lodged against Hardwick had been withdrawn by the legion.

Mr. Freeman, who is now in Chattanooga. spoke at a legion meeting at Newnan last Saturday afternoon and during the course of his remarks stated that "we will withdraw the charges of disloyalty for a moment and let you judge for yourself."

Following is the message:

"Chattanooga, Tenn., August 11.

"Trammell Scott, 1613 Healey Building, Atlanta, Ga.

"Claims that I withdrew charges of disloyalty against Hardwick at Newnan utterly false. Newnan meeting was vigorous protest against brazen effort of Watson and Hardwick in asking high offices at the hands of the people in the light of the disloyal war record of each. It must be borne in mind that Hardwick is branded disloyal not by charges of any individual or group, but by his record as senator, which shows constant opposition to all measures for vigorous prosecution of the war. Will return Saturday to assist in any way possible the fight being waged against these men. prosecution of the prosecution of the saturday to assist in any way possible the fight being waged against (Signed) "R. FUNDS ARE NEEDED IN CHARITY CASES

The Associated Charities are seek-ing assistance from charitably dis-posed people who are anxious to give aid where it is greatly needed give aid where it is greatly needed.
Two cases are upon the hands of the Associated Charities. One is of an old lady sick and alone, owning a small house on the outskirts of the city. She secures grocery money by renting one of the rooms of the house, but is unable to provide further money, being physically unable to do any work. A new roof is needed on the little house and some donations have already been received for this purpose. Fifteen dollars is needed to make the necessary amount.

The other is of an aged couple.
The old man is crippled and cannot do any work. The Associated Charlities will be very grateful to any one making a donation toward the two funds.
